Aplicom and Garmin Announce Partnership

Espoo - Southampton, 8 April 2009 – Aplicom, a pioneer in professional vehicle telematics and Garmin, the global leader in satellite navigation announced today that they have entered into a partnership concerning Fleet Management solutions. The partnership provides Aplicom customers with connected navigation products at cost-effective prices. Aplicom offers the Garmin navigators together with the cables connecting Garmin to A1 as part of its product portfolio.

The integration of A1 with the Garmin navigator enables improved workflow management and communication between the drivers and the back-office of the end-customer, as well as navigation possibility to the driver. This comprehensive package improves the efficiency of task management and trip planning, leading to improved customer service and cost savings.

Giovanni Di Santo, Garmin's OEM B2B Automotive Manager said: "We are happy to start the partnership with such an experienced player as Aplicom, who is known for its reliable products and long experience in the fleet management field."

Aplicom's A1 MAX and TRAX are reliable and flexible vehicle telematics units with well-thought inbuilt functionality. They are easily configured to best suit each individual customer case. Both are suitable for advanced tracking, tracing and fleet management solutions. A1 products offer all the needed interfaces, including CAN/FMS, digital tachograph, temperature sensor solution, iButton etc. The software interface currently offered by A1 MAX and TRAX is for the Garmin nüvi 5000 model.

Garmin has recently improved its Fleet Management Interface (FMI) further to include highly requested features such as canned responses and messages, driver ID and driver status protocol.
